Sarver's 12-year-old daughter, who is a student in Fordsville Graded School, claims that Gutherie enticed her into his store and made some advances unbecoming a gentleman. This last week. The father learned of the matter and went to Fordsville, Monday. Not knowing the accused he asked, Arthur Smith, who is in business near Gutherie's confectionery, to introduce him. Smith, knowing nothing of Sarver's intent, made the introduction. Instead of offering his hand. Sarver reached behind him and produced a wagon spoke, which he had Gutherie a teriffic blow upon the head.

Soon after committing the deed, Sarver went to the office of Dr. Deninjured man, which the physician did. He then went to Town Marchall Walter Burden, and had himself placed under arrest. He soon gave bond and was released.

Gutherie is a married man and has three children. Sarver is about thirty years of age.—Hartford Herald.

MILD WINTER AND MORE FEED MAKE MORE POUNDS AT LESS COST.

The commercial cattle situation is encouraging. The mild winter and a-bundance of feed have enabled the making of more pounds at less cost. Recently feeding cattle prices advanced considerably. Taking a general survey of the country there is a market shortage. Arizona is the only state that has more cattle than a year ago. That is on account of the fact that rangemen there contracted last year's crop to men, many of whom were unable to complete the deals. Some of the most important steer feeding counties in Kansas and many other sections are far short of normal supplies. The North-western range country is extremely short on cattle. This condition ought to make a fine de-McQuady, were guest of Mr. Chas. mand for Shorthorn bulls and will, as Bowlds and family Saturday night soon as bankers take their thumbs off the screws.-Shorthorn World.

Reasonable Prices Have Come Back Again

We can say this with full certainty now.

While we were clearing out our old goods, and manufacturers were clearing out their old goods to us, it told little about what prices would be when spick-span-new goods were to be marked.

But now THE NEW GOODS ARE COM-ING IN, and most of the other new goods have been bought, and we know that PRICES ARE A-WAY DOWN and permanently down, on practically everything you want to buy, and we are looking forward to a pleasant season of Spring selling, because our customers will be much happier in buying when everything is really worth the price paid for it again.

Gathering merchandise for our customers today requires extreme vigilance and fullest knowledge of the lowering markets. We have been wide awake and cautious and courageous by turns. Now we are highly gratified with what he have accomplished, and each day we grow more eager for you to see and realize what we have done in your service.

Many of the new goods are here-others are coming in every day. Better in quality-broader in variety-lower in price.

That is why the store is daily more interesting and worth while to visit.

AN OLD WHITE SKIRT -AN ECONOMY STORY

Have you an old white skirt which you thought ready for the rag bag? What it the matter with it? It is too tight around the hips. Rip out the hem and if it is worn on the fold cut it off. Raise the skirt until it is large enough around the hips. Cut off the top and attach to an inner belt. Unless your old inner belt is as good as new buy a new one, for the inner belt often makes the success of failure of a skirt Even off the bottof ,and if not too short, fact it. Otherwise you will have to make a false hem. What is a false hem? It is merely a strip of cloth be of the same or of contrasting material. Use a plaid or a striped material add a touch to pockets or belt, and show your friends a brand new sport

Is your skirt too large? Either take up the seams or recut it into a new style. Or, perhaps the top is too worn to use any more. Put on a new yoke "with the country getting back to work and people beginning to buy, it will not take long for the situation to better. Of course, it will be different middy blouses or one of the new long of similar material. In case you have no more of the old material use any blouses. You might make a new middy blouse from the old skirt. Use the bottom of the skirt for the bottom of the blouse. Measure up the length desired and cut the top of the blouse by a plain waist pattern. Add sleeves, collar and belt of similar or contrasting material and you are ready for

Does Johnny need a new romper or Sunday suit? Get out your pattern and arrange all of it on the unworn parts of the skirt before cutting. Make it all white or trim it with colored scraps from the useful rag bag. The material is strong enough to last Johnny a season and by that time he will have outgrown it. Or is it Mary that is in need? Make her a jumper dress to wear with thin white guimpes which you can make from your old waists.

But you have no Mary or Johnny and you don't need another middy blouse? However, you do need a ves-tee for your tailored suit and that old pique, linen, or madras skirt will furnish the very latest material. Use your old vestee for a patern or get a new style. Cut it double if you want it lined with the same material or line it with, lawn and have two vestees. Cover button molds with the same material, or use pearl or black bone buttons, and you have as stylish an article as you'll find in the shops and for a much smaller amount. #### HABIT FORMATION

By Olive Roberts.

Mothers are often heard to say, 'My children have such untidy habits, and I don't seem to be able to break them. I talk all day long, but it doesn't do any good."

No mother needs to endure her children's untidy habits, or any other undesirable habits, if she goes about training in the right way, and is willing to take a little trouble to carry it out. Four simple rules based on psychology, may serve to give such mothers an insight into the means of forming right habits. If carried out faithfully, these rules cannot fai! to produce results.

First, decide for yourself what habit you wish to form. Then start enthusiastically and determinedly to break the old and launch the new one. Say to your children, "Beginning today, we are all going to hang up our wraps, and put our books and rubbers in the proper places when we come home from school. Let's see who remembers every time, and doesn't have to have Mother tell her once about it." Arouse as much enthusiasm as you can about the matter. Be careful that you do not start to break and form anew too many habit at one time. Select one or two habits to work one, and keep at them until you are reasonably sure that they are well fixed. Then start on another.

cur after you have once started. No mere talking.

matter how good the intentions of the children are, they will lapse into the old ways after a few days. That is when you will have to work. You will find that eternal vigilance on your part will be the price of your child-ren's good habits. When Mary comes home in a hurry to go out to play, she will throw her books on the nearest chair. Don't say, "Oh, well, she is little, and it is hard to remember all the time, I'll let it go this time." That i whesre you will fail. Even though Mary has already gone away to play, she should be called back immediately and told in a kind manner, "You forgot your books today. Put them away, and then you may go to play." One or two experiences of that kind will soon make Mary more careful.

Third, repeat the desirable action as often as possible. We all know that the habit it most firmly fixed which we have been practicing longest. Seize every occasion to perform the act which you wish to become a habit, and its acquisition will come all the sooner.

Last of all, act, don't talk. As Professor James says, in his Talks to Teachers, "Don't preach too much or abound in good talk in the abstract." When Mary throws her coat on the floor and her rubbers in the middle of the hall, don't tell her that nice little girls don't do those things, or that he is a careless girl and should know better, and a great deal more to that effect. Simply call her as soon as you discover what she has done, and tell her quietly and good-naturedly, and then see that she does it. Such treat-Second, permit no exceptions to oc- ment as this is far more effective than

CROPS OF PHILIPPINES VALUED AT $344,000,000

High Prices and Greatly Increased Acreage Nearly Doubles Value in Year.

The value of the most important products of the Philippine islandsrice, sugar, hemp, corn, coconuts and tobacco-for the year 1920 amounted to approximately $344,000,000, according to the preliminary annual report submitted by the secretary of agriculture to the governor general, Francis Burton Harrison. In 1919 the value of these same six products was only $219,000,000. Dr. Galicano Apacible, secretary of agriculture, in his report says that while the increase in the value of Philippine products in 1920 was due largely to the high prices, the increase in acreage and the quality of the crops assisted in swelling the value.

In 1920 the area of land planted to rice amounied to 3,700,000 acres, an increase of 7 per cent over the previous year. This rice was all sold in the Philippines for approximately $127,-400,000, an increase of 37 per cent over 1919.

The area planted to sugar cane last year was 493,507 acres. off of which approximately 468,000 tons of sugar were haryested, the value being $79,-628,000. Although there was a reduction of 1 per cent in the 1920 acreage from that of 1919, there was a 3 per cent increase in production of sugar.

The production of coconuts in 1920 amounted to 79,406,104 trees, valued at $61,000,000, as compared with 74,650,-000 trees in 1919, valued at $37, 00,000.

The tobacco production in 1920 amounted to 142,300,000 pounds from 252,800 acres, and was valued at $13,-300,000. The increase in total production and in the value of the crop over 1919 amounted approximately to 18 per

ANSWER TO ROCK ME TO SLEEP MOTHER

It was written by Mrs. Elizabeth Akers Allen, who wrote under the non de plume of "Florence Percy." This is the answer to "Rock Me To Sleep Mother," don't know the author.

My child, oh, my child; thou art weary tonight Thy spirit is sad and dim is the light; Thou woulds't call me back from the echoless shore, To the trials of life, to thy heart as of yore; Thou longest again for my fond loving care For my kiss on thy cheek, for my hand on thy hair; But angels around thee, their loving watch keep, And angels, my darling, will rock thee to sleep.

Backward? Nay, onward, ye swift rolling years, Girt on thy armor, keep back thy tears; Count not thy trials nor efforts in vain-They'll bring thee the light of thy childhood again, Thou shoulds't not weary, my child, by the way, But watch for the light of that brighter day; Not tired of "sowing for others to reap," For angels, my darling, will rock thee to sleep.

Tired my child, of the base, the untrue, I have tasted the cup they have given to you-I've left the deep sorrow in the living green Of a low mossy grave by a silvery stream; But the dear mother I then sought for in vain Is an angel presence and with me again; And in the still night, from the silence so deep, Come the bright angels to rock me to sleep.

Nearer thee now than in days that are flown, Purer the love light encircling thy home; For more enduring the watch for tonight; Then ever earth worship away from the light, Soon the dark shadows will linger no more, Nor come to thy call from the opening door; But know that my child, that the angels watch keep; And soon, very soon, they'll rock thee to sleep.

They'll sing thee to sleep with a soothing song, And waking, thoult be with a heavenly throng; And thy life with its toil, its tears and its pain, Thou wilt then see has not been in vain, Thou wilt meet those in bliss whom on earth thou didst love, And whom thou hast taught of the "mansions above," 'Never hereafter to suffer to weep,'

The angels my darling, will rock thee to sleep.

WOODROW WILSON

By M'Cready Sykes-In Commerce & Finance ment of history on Woodrow Wilson. Borne by vast world currents to a dizzy height, wherefrom, like Caesar, he did bestride the world like a Col ossus, the fickle shifts of public opinnone so poor to do him reverence. As doctrinaire. his eventful administration ends he his eventful administration ends he enters doubtless on the ascending curve of public esteem, whose oscillations will finally reach an equilibrium where shall be recorded the judgewhere shall be recorded the judgement of history on one who Left a name at which the world grew paic. To point a moral or adorn a tale.

Mr. Wilson approached and entered public life by a short cut and without the apprenticeship that acquaints men with the workings of practical politics. He had written books on government, not alone on its purposes and accomplishments, but specifically having early gone into teaching as a profession, he had no first-hand knowledge of courts, nor did he ever reveal special sympathy with the judicial point of view. He was too well in-form, too catholic and comprehensive in his equipment, to be antagonistic to the judicial point of view; it was simply that his mind did not work that way. Neither temperamentally, nor by training did he have the habit of seeing the other side.

Contrary to a rather popular impression, he was never a selfish man. By training a schoolmaster, long before he entered public life his mental habits and processes were those inevitably resulting from daily dealing with minds less mature than his own His career can be interpreted and understood only in the light of these ingrained mental habits His characteristic insistence on his own way was to be attributed not so much to egotistical pride of opinion as to impatience of meticulous interference with broad policies, with the annoyance and lost motion resultant on tinkering with plans broadly conceived; al-died March 15th, 1919.

The month of March again is here To us the saddest of the year. Because two years ago today, Our darling mother passed away.

Some day sometime our eyes shall see That face we loved so well, Some day our hands shall clasp in her's, To never say farewell.

Keep her dear Jesus in thy keeping, Till we reach the shinning shore Then Oh Moster let us see her,

Love and keep her as before.

When Mr. Robert -Randolph rick O'Reilly, ex-driver the Village Cab company's No. skidded that vehicle disastrously to the curb in front of the Poppy club and, as a result of his criminal in the difficulty in the conjunction with Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton's reprehensible peeking oc-cupation, hurled that sound lady to the middle of the side vak to her hand and knees, he leaped remains seek

Two considerations, however, shot from the double-barreled blunderbuss of Ridicule and Honor, on ught him on the wing, as it were, and deflected his flight from west to east with a sharp turn due south at the corner of Fifty-seventh street and Sixth avenue. In the first place, out of the corner of his eye he had seen his one-time ls, Mr. Nearton, Mr. Verries and Berry descending the shallow club front steps in an avalanche; in the second place, he suddenly recollected that Miss Thornton was an heiress, high above his present station and Intent, as he had gathered from between the lines in various advertise-

Mr. Randolph's widely placed blue eyes narrowed in an effort to examin the proposition shrewdly from angles, and the light of hope was just beginning to dawn across the troubl in his honest face when there cam a sharp knock on the door, followe promptly by the rattle of the loose knob and the unceremonious entry of one birdlike, bald-headed, dapper corporation lawyer and two corpulert gum-shoe plain-clothes men.

So many people ready to serve the dollar means so many less to serve God. There are great opportunities to do good, but they are in men's hearts; not in my check book."

Mr. Garland, coming as he does of of a rich family, doubtless knows from experience that mere money cannot buy happiness and real peace of mind. He might have used the million to spread the gospel of limiting inheritanc. Of course people think him a silly crank. However, that is mild in comparison with what the same people would think of the Man of Nazareth if he were here now to rebuke our modern pharisees and upset the tables of the money changers. He almost surely would be caged up as a menace and might not escape being crucified all over again, for the controlling classes were no greedier for gold or crazier for power then than now.-Shorthorn World.
